Cultural Directions

If your garden does not contain "Glads" you are missing one floral treat. Their certainty to bloom, ease of culture, and lasting qualities as cut flowers are not surpassed by any.

No other summer blooms are as attractive and useful for decorations. Their large, perfect flowers, borne on tall, graceful spikes often have twenty or more buds, all of which will blossom and give you a beautiful bouquet for ten days or more, if the wilted flowers are removed and fresh water given each day.

Plant in the sun (and not where the roots of trees or shrubbery sap the ground) four to five inches deep and three to eight inches apart in rows; use well rotted manure or good potato fertilizer thoroughly mixed with the soil.

When cutting flowers leave four to five leaves to help mature the new bulbs; dig when the leaves begin to turn lighter in color or when a brown skin shows on top of the new bulb; cut tops close to the bulbs and allow them to dry in the sun for a few days.

Break off the roots and old dried bulb before storing them in a dry, cool cellar (free from frost), in shallow boxes or trays not over six inches deep.

Save the small bulblets and plant (to increase your stock) early next spring, as you would peas—two inches deep; harvest same as blooming bulbs, plant again the next season and you will have some nice blooms, and the next year they will be at their best.

OVER

The Gladiolus, The King of Flowers

Would you like to know more about growing Gladiolus? Would you like to know how to make them bloom like your neighbors? Wouldn't it please you to be able to produce these long spikes with many flowers open, such as you see at the flower shows or in your florist's show windows? Would it be interesting to you to know what new varieties are being created; their color, size, and price?

There are no secrets in all these. If you will become a member of the American Gladiolus Society, you will receive its beautiful 32-page monthly "Bulletin," which explains all these things and teaches you how to grow them as good as the professional. The "Bulletin" will also teach you the best varieties and proper colors to grow for different effects and purposes.

Why have nearly four thousand amateurs joined the Society in the past five years? They are "in search of knowledge," and the best place to find it is in the columns of the A. G. S. Official "Bulletin," any issue of which is worth the full cost of membership.

Garden & Home Builder is published in a 20-acre garden—a vast experimental station. Here every new plant, new spray and insecticide, and new cultural method is tested. The results come to you each month in this reliable, fully illustrated periodical. It helps with every phase of garden work in every kind of a garden.

This magazine has been enlarged, its policy broadened, its name changed to Garden & Home Builder,—to help with the house as well as with the garden. With more garden material than ever, this is the best garden and home magazine published.

There is no better encouragement in the growing of "Glads" than being a member of the American Gladiolus Society and receiving the Bulletin, a monthly magazine issued by the Society wholly for the improvement and bringing to the attention of all flower lovers the great possibilities and pleasure in growing Gladiolus.

Enclosed is an application blank which we hope you can use. The cost of both the Bulletin and Membership is but $2.00 per year.
